

The College of Applied and Natural Sciences invites you to a reading from Shadowshine

AUTHOR AND TECH'S COLLEGE OF APPLIED AND NATURAL SCIENCES
DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS FOR 2019-20
DR. JOHNNY ARMSTRONG

2 P.M., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 2019
STONE THEATRE, LOUISIANA TECH

Author, conservationist, and pathologist, Johnny and his wife Karen and Opal (k-nine) live in a Nature Conservancy protected old-growth forest and woodland outside of Ruston, Louisiana. Johnny's first novel, Shadowshine, with all the philosophical musings of its quirky yet remarkable characters, is a story of self-discovery and of perseverance, of the battle between good and wickedness, and of strong and lovable players who never give up.

"A stunning tale told through the odyssey of a loveable possum, and the friends and lessons he collects along the way. This book should rank as a mainstay of environmental literature for generations to come."
Nelwyn McInnis, Conservation Scientist, The Nature Conservancy